

Published March 4th, 2020

Lafayette's newest public art piece and first-ever art Walk and Talk event

By Pippa Fisher

Lafayette's latest public art piece, A Living Street by Alice M. Stern, was installed last month. Photo provided

Mercantile Building, the Town Center, the Jennifer Perlmutter Gallery, culminating after about an hour and a half at the latest public art on Mountain View Drive to hear Stern talk about her work.

Peacock, a five-year member of the PAC and 27-year resident of Lafayette who has been active in the arts for many years, will be leading the tour with PAC Vice Chair Susan Loria. Peacock urges residents to "Come see Lafayette's wonderful collection of outdoor art." She notes there are many lovely, and often overlooked works of public art in the city.

Further details on the event can be found at www.lovelafayette.org/city-hall/commissions-committees/public-art-committee/public-art-events-733

Reach the reporter at: pippa@lamorindaweekly.com

back

Copyright © Lamorinda Weekly, Moraga CA